

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA RADIATION ONCOLOGY SPARK-ONC.

Supporting Participation and Representation of Key Underrepresented groups in Oncology at the University of Florida.

The Program

Interest

Promote interest in Radiation Oncology.

Knowledge

Provide knowledge through clinical and didactic exposure for UIM students.

Mentorship

Cultivate long-lasting mentorship for mutual growth.

Presentation

Create a final presentation as part of the program.

SPARK-ONC

August 5 - September 1, 2024

radonc.med.ufl.edu/education/residency-programs/physician/spark-onc-student-program-info/

Apply Now

- Four-week in person rotation including a 1 bed/ 1 bath furnished apartment, transportation and a $3200 stipend.
- Seeking 4th year medical students interested in radiation oncology graduating in 2025
- Applications open now until June 1, 2024
- Apply through VSLO website and visit the UF RadOnc website for supplemental application.
- For more information, please visit: <https://shorturl.at/vFX79> or contact Tasha Graham at (352) 273 - 5544 or Tasha.graham@medicine.ufl.edu with any questions.

Our Goal

Our goal is to increase the representation and participation of underrepresented students in radiation oncology at the University of Florida through the implementation of the SPARK-ONC program.

@UFRadOnc

